Conducting a Newspaper

"If you are running a republican paper why don't you cut out some of that stuff about Roosevelt and Wilson?" was the question recently asked the editor of this publication.

The answer was short and brief. It was that the Bonanza was being conducted as a newspaper should. It is the endeavor of the manager of the Bonanza to serve the subscribers with all the news that is readable. The columns of the paper are for the purpose of serving up news. It makes no difference what nature the news happens to be, for as long as it comes under the head of "news" it will be printed.

There are as many democratic subscribers to the Bonanza as there are republicans. Consequently they are entitled to all the news that is of interest to them. The same is the correct situation with regard to the socialists, the prohibitionists, the progressive republicans and all other political factions. The news as it is received is served without coloring or change.

It is in the editorial columns that the opinions of the editor are placed. That column we reserve strictly for the purpose of quoting our private opinion. To some readers the editorials are appreciated. To others, a contrary opinion may be entertained and our ideas may not be appreciated. However, we could not hope to make a success of the paper should we vary our editorials daily, one day pay a tribute to some democratic candidate and on the following day laud socialistic principles. Therefore, to be consistent, we will continue to advocate such republican principles as we may see fit.

The news columns of the paper will always be used for the purpose intended and in this manner we hope to build up the Bonanza until it finds its way into every home in southern Nevada. It may be well to state here that at the present time there happens to be very few homes that the Bonanza does not reach. It is admitted there are a few exceptions, but the number is limited and will be materially lessened before the first of the year arrives.

Reviving the Old Custom

A campaign without democratic meddling would be classed as the eighth wonder of the world. Always at the start of the campaign it is to be noticed that the Nevada democratic papers print blazing headlines the announcement that the battle will be fought in the open and on the issues of the day only. The announcement serves its purpose and before the day of election draws near the official mudpile has been reduced until a depression shows instead of a mound.

The present campaign is no exception. Already the democratic press is hurling generous chunks of filth in the direction of the republican national candidates and from the progress made it is to be assumed that a regular volcanic eruption of mud will soon be observed hurling from the hands of the editors who have espoused democracy as their cause. In several instances the mud sling tactics are being resorted to for the purpose of settling personal grievances, and in others it is upon direct orders from the democratic headquarters.

Two years ago it appeared the editors of the democratic papers were vying with one another to see who could hurl the most mud. The result was the defeat of the national candidates and many of the state office seekers. That the same result will be in evidence this year, is assured. The voters applaud the candidates who conduct clean campaigns, and for this reason alone the republican state and national candidates are assured of success at the November polls.

In selecting N. K. Franklin, J. B. Holmes, A. H. Keenan, J. C. Peck and William Trabert as the republican candidates for the assembly, the republican party of Nye county has no apologies to make. Every man named is qualified to serve in the position stated, and if elected will serve for the best interests of Nye county.

The German army sergeant who referred to the national air of this country as "My Country What Is It to You," had things twisted as much as the Nevada democratic press who are endeavoring to find a flaw in the record of Senator Massey.

If every state and county republican candidate was as assured of being elected as happens to be the case of Congressman E. E. Roberts, what a republican landslide would be described after the fifth of November.

Some kind-hearted subscriber lent a new stove on the Bonanza doorstep yesterday. In order to be comfortable we announce that coal will be taken for subscriptions during the winter months.

The Bonanza is published for the sole purpose of assisting in the upbuilding of Tonopah and Nye county. It is not in business for the purpose of political graft, and prints a paper the year around.

Now that Convict Skinner has been captured, several good revolvers, guaranteed to be new and in good working order, can be had at a bargain by applying to a number of prominent local citizens.

"Anxious Inquirer" writes asking if Brother Ray is still a resident of Nevada. We are unable to answer, but believe he is still engaged in doing democratic politics.

No Geraldine, the Chinese newspaper is not the official organ of the democratic party in Nevada. Whoever said so must have been joking.

AMUSEMENTS

Butler Theater

The following program will be shown at the Butler theater tonight: "The Little Indian Martyr," a historic and dramatic incident of the old California missions; "The Hand of Destiny," a Pacific western story; "Carmen and Hearty," a Vitagraph drama, and "Bunny and the Dogs." Bunny knows something about chickens, but what he doesn't know about dogs would fill a book. On his little farm in the country John has everything but dogs. His wife insists upon having a good watch dog. He starts out in quest of the right kind and the right breed. Visiting one of the largest kennels in the state, he is surprised to see the largest collection of barkers he ever beheld. Not wishing to display his ignorance, he insists upon watching the dogs in their exercise, as they follow their keeper over the fields and hills. He helps the keeper feed them at meal time and finally decides upon one dog, which he takes in his arms upside down. The keeper instructs him in the proper method of carrying a dog and Bunny smilingly hastens home to acquaint his wife with their newly acquired companion and protector.
